Sister Mary Rose, R. S. M.

We, the members of the graduating class, dedicate the 1966 Mercycrest with sincere pride and respect to you, Sister Mary Rose and Sister Mary Fidelis.

This is but a small measure of our heartfelt gratitude for the part you have played in our memorable Mount days. You were with us as timid Freshmen, challenging Sophomores, anticipating Juniors, and now as Senior leaders of our school. In loyalty to you for your dedicated interest in us, we hope to prove ourselves worthy as we carry the fruits of your efforts and good example into our future lives.

We ask God to reward you for all your kindness to us in His service. This dedication is but a mere token of our gratitude.

Sister Mary Fidelis, R. S. M.

FACULTY

ADMINISTRATION

His Excellency, the Most Reverend James Connolly, has faithfully served the Diocese and has shown an interest in its secondary schools for many years. At present he is building a large high school for the boys of Fall River.

As Auxiliary Bishop of the Fall River Diocese, the Most Reverend James Gerrard does much to promote Catholic education. In the beginning days of the Mount, he was the girl's spiritual director.

Reverend Patrick O'Neill, Diocesan Superintendent of Schools, shows foresight in preparing today's students for their places among the Catholic laity in a steadily progressing world.

Reverend Joseph Delaney, Assistant Superintendent, helps provide a well integrated program, which will develop the whole individual and will give him a broad, balanced perspective of life.

Reverend Paul McCarrick, Spiritual Director at the Mount, is admired by all students. In his friendly way, he is always ready to help any student seeking his advice.

Leaders in Liturgical Prayer

Mother Mary Helena is Mother Provincial of the Sisters of Mercy in the Fall River and Providence Dioceses. Although Mother has many commitments, she always shows an interest in the Mount.

Our Guides in the Liturgical Movement

Janice Brady, a member of the 1966 MERCYCREST photography staff, has a little conversation with Sister Mary Cecile, the new Superior of Mount Saint Mary Convent.

Mother Mary Alban, Assistant Mother Provincial, plans the study program for the religious faculty. With keen foresight, she provides a good background in each Sister's major field.

Sister Mary Consilii, Principal, and Mrs. Muriel Medeiros, her secretary, discuss the new computer marking system, which is being used for the first time at Mount Saint Mary.

Sister Mary Charlotte congratulates Mr. Paquette on his selection of music the night of the Father-Daughter dance.

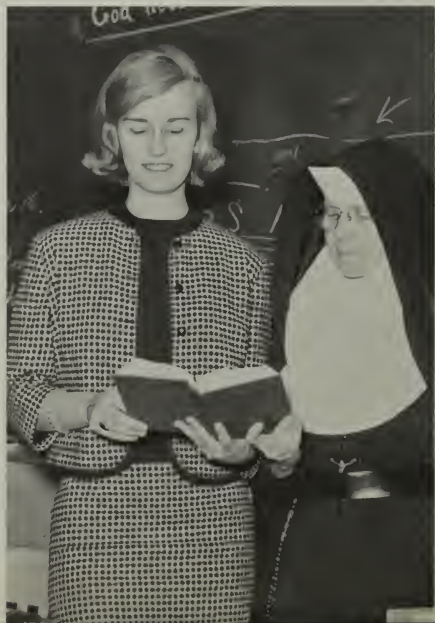

Mr. Tavares shows his art class how to perform wonders with newspapers. In addition to art Mr. Tavares teaches science.

Miss Morin smiles as she overwhelms her junior chemistry class with valences and radicals. Besides chemistry Miss Morin teaches biology and she is a sophomore homeroom teacher.

Mrs. Schongar and Sister Mary Benita discuss English Grammar. Mrs. Schongar teaches English and Sister Mary Benita teaches English and mathematics and is yearbook adviser.

Teaching

Through Example

Patiently, Sister Mary Fidelis tries to clear up a little difficulty for a freshman Latin student. Sister's schedule is made up of English and Latin classes.

Sister Mary Denisita informs religion students of Bishop Cassidy's role in Mount history. Bishop Cassidy gave the school its motto, "Maria Spes nostra."

"Are you with it?" How can Mount students help but be with the subject in a class led by our dynamic history teacher, Mrs. Carvalho.

Sister Marie Lorraine is caught trying to make her students practice the ability to think. If you know how to think, her algebra and music classes are enjoyable. Sister also adds that musical touch of harmony to our Glee Club.

Hurrying to watch her promising young mathematicians graduate, Mrs. McConnell is caught by the camera. Mrs. McConnell teaches mathematics to juniors and seniors.

English must be translated into perfect Spanish to please Sister Mary Ludvine. Sister also aims for high standards in her work with the Sodality and her Religion classes. The paperback store is one of her interests and she keeps it well stocked.

"Come, Nancy, put Sister Mary Carmalita's English into practice and use the correct word." Besides English, Sister teaches shorthand and history and is Debate Club moderator.

Teaching by example is Miss Lavoie's method. Miss Lavoie teaches physical education and she and Sister Mary La Salette are Sports moderators.

Everyone "gets the point" when Sister Mary Albertus, senior religion teacher, presents it this way. Sister also teaches biology and chemistry and she is Sodality moderator.

The "logic of geometry" is what Sister Mary Phyllis is explaining to sophomore Susan Arruda. Besides geometry Sister Phyllis teaches French according to the modern linguistic approach to sophomores and juniors.

Sister Mary LaSalette is Mount's new energetic and helpful business teacher. Business students admire Sister's concern for accuracy in her typing, bookkeeping and office practice classes.

We finally snapped a perfect shot of Sister Mary Chabanel at home in the Biology Lab. Sister Mary Chabanel teaches general science, biology, physics and religion. "Quiet" studies are also her specialty.

In our library we find Mount's two librarians, Miss Sullivan and Sister Mary Mercy, examining a new reference book. Sister Mary Mercy teaches history to the juniors and freshmen.

At her desk preparing for action, we find Sister Mary Austina. Besides her time consuming job as Mercian adviser, Sister Mary Austina teaches classes in religion and English.

The class of 1966 wishes to express to Sister Mary Julian their deepest appreciation for the excellent coaching she gave our basketball and volleyball teams. Sister also provided excellent training for business students here at the Mount.

We welcome the guests and admirers of the 1965 graduating class. Among these are Mother Mary Alban, Sister Mary Kieran, Sisters from other communities and Sister Mary Verona, a former member of the Mount faculty.

RELIGION

The Liturgical Year and the study of the Liturgical changes brought about by the Ecumenical Council are stressed in religion classes. In keeping with this adaptation to changes within the Church's ceremonies, the Class of 1966 has chosen for their yearbook theme: the Liturgical Year as it is lived by the Mount student.

During vocation month girls showed a special interest in the life of a Sister of Mercy. Janis admires the foundress, Mother Mary Catherine McAuley.

These juniors enrich their regular religion class by conducting a Bible Vigil. During the Vigil excerpts are read from the Bible which are afterwards discussed and applied to the life of the student as she imitates Christ in her daily life.

Lent at the Mount is a time of devotion. During their free time students visit the chapel and pray before this beautiful crucifix. This crucifix is also a source of inspiration to the religious faculty as they make their daily meditations.

Reverend Paul McCarrick is Spiritual Director at the Mount and instructs the girls in religion. Here he blesses the rings which were distributed during the ring ceremony to the present seniors. The ring is a symbol of responsibility and loyalty.

During senior religion class, Nancy Sayward is earnestly explaining a Hi-Time outline to her classmate, Stef Cummings.

ENGLISH

"Friends, Romans, countrymen, lend me your ears . . ." is the plea of Gail Silvia. Surely, all the Shakespeare enthusiasts will respond.

English discussions can prove very fruitful if various opinions are voiced. Sophomores had many a chance to prove this.

Freshman Karen Fennessey illustrates a basic principle of modern English. Through the use of "nonsense" sentences, the girls are able to show whether they understand the basic grammatical patterns. These sentences are shown on the wall with an overhead projector.

When Father O'Neill and Father Curran, S. J., came to hear John H. Griffin, author of Black Like Me, racial problems of the South were discussed.

Research is basic to an English paper. Snapped in the middle of their endeavors are Paula Kuras and Jacqueline Vigeant.

Mount's English curriculum consists of literary types for freshmen, American literature for sophomores, English literature for juniors, and world literature and literature in depth for seniors. Modern grammar and a study of the history and changes of the English language are integrated in the program.

An English study would never be complete without the works of Shakespeare. Hamlet and Macbeth are studied thoroughly at the Mount.

LANGUAGES

Nancy Lord acts as leader "pro-tempore" of the Senior Spanish class as we see the students in an informal discussion. Sister Mary Ludivine is the proud teacher of this group.

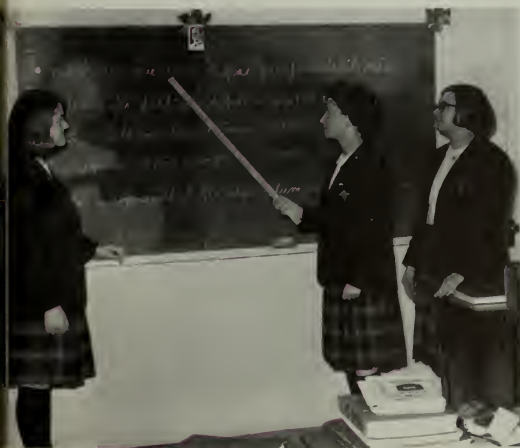

Now and then the French III class enjoys a little peek at France itself. Sister Mary Adele gladly shares with her class the beautiful slides and brief episodes of her trip.

"Valentines anyone?" Admiring the fruits of an energetic French class, Sister Mary Phyllis, Louise Charland and Maureen Austin show approval of a project well done.

Spanish can prove quite interesting when you are corrected by a fellow classmate. Jane Teves shows Jacqueline Cummings proof as Sheila Correa looks on.

The study of languages at Mount Saint Mary includes both modern and ancient. For those who wish a rich classical background Mount offers four years of Latin. Students who are interested in modern languages may choose German, French or Spanish. Modern languages are taught by the modern linguistic approach.

The scansion of Virgil's Aeneid is a fascinating occupation for three eager seniors—Anne Sullivan, Susan Jenkinson, and Carolyn Walas—who labored through four years of that ancient language.

SCIENCE

The twentieth century has experienced some of the most remarkable scientific advances in history. Our satellites and nuclear reactor, the discovery of new elements and drugs — these are affecting all our lives. The Mount, in keeping abreast of all modern developments, has provided a full science background.

Here is an industrious group of future physicists! Mount Seniors Mary Hoss, Beverly Furtado and Judith Riley pause for a moment while Elizabeth Misek explains the use of the slide rule.

Exploring the marvels of the biological world is a worthwhile pastime for our Senior biologists! The girls are Joanne Deda, Claudette Demers, Jane Doran, Nancy Connell, Elsie Pelton and Karen Lowney.

Sister Luz Amparo de la Merced, O. P. and Sister Angela Consuelo, O. P. are "twin sisters" who are South American nuns studying at the Mount. Here they are dissecting a starfish.

Glass tubes, beakers, and graduated scales are part of the wonders of science! Sister Mary Chabanel introduces two Freshmen, Mary Jane Newbury and Diane Bernier, to their general science course.

Mount has a very brave biologist as we can see! Theresa Miranda is examining a spider during a laboratory period of advanced biology. Evolution is the underlying theme of study.

MATH

The Math department at the Mount carries out its heavy curriculum quite well. A girl may go for extra help at any time, and will be assured of receiving it. Logical thinking and the ability to reason out a problem are only two of the many characteristics one acquires.

The freshmen seem to be enjoying their Algebra I class with Sister Marie Lorraine. They are being taught the modern method and find it quite a challenge, but very interesting.

A Sophomore, Susan Arruda, concentrates on finding the solution to this Geometry problem. Plane Geometry, taught by Sister Mary Phyllis, shows the students how to reason out complex situations.

A very enthusiastic freshman, Kathleen Aubert, discusses a puzzling math problem with Sister Inez and Sister Jose. Kathleen and the two sisters are in the same General Math class.

Elaine Bleau explains her answer to a Geometry problem while the other sophomores listen. These girls are taught, also, by Sister Mary Phyllis.

The seniors in Mrs. McConnell's math class joyfully take a few minutes out from the heavy schedule. At times they find Math quite trying, but still enjoyable.

Extraneous roots can deeply puzzle some girls, but Veronica Raposa really gets carried away with them, as other members of her senior math class can verify.

BUSINESS

Sister Mary La Salette's junior typing class works diligently as Sister makes sure everyone is in correct typing position. Each girl is deeply engrossed in her work and tries continuously to achieve speed and accuracy in her typing.

Sherry Onorate and Pauline Mello smile knowingly as Dorothy Morton coaches them in the art. It isn't easy and our three future business women spend much time pouring over their books together.

For those girls who are inclined to a business atmosphere Mount has many facilities. Besides an extensive availability of business resources Mount has grand leadership in the business field and has produced many dedicated business-women. With their thorough preparation Mount students become an asset to their community.

Here we find our industrious seniors hard at work as they learn the techniques of office practice. As secretaries and career women of tomorrow, the girls must become familiar with the mechanics of the business world.

Nancy Remy, lost in thought, pours over a filing cabinet as she imagines herself a distinguished secretary in the office of a famous industrialist!

The senior office-practice class flips through correspondence file boxes. These are used for business letters and information. The girls take part in mock business situations which prepare them for future business careers.

HISTORY

Gathered in a history huddle we find seven quizzical American history students attempting to find the answers with their fellow seniors. Jean Gagnon points out valuable proof as a solution to one problem.

World history is a required subject on the agenda of every freshman here at the Mount. This study covers time from earliest man to present day.

The attributes and mistakes of the past can be those of the future. This emphasizes the importance of history and its place in our curriculum. From freshman to senior all find a specific phase — from Ancient history to government — into which they can delve here at the Mount.

Ann Sullivan stands with jubilant surprise as all votes are tallied and she is chosen to represent Mount and her classmates at Boston on Government Day. She may have an influence in the history of tomorrow!

Two history enthusiasts, Sister Consillii and her brother, Brother Michael, have enriched our history course immeasurably this year. Sister's brother shared his Ethiopian experiences with us.

Ann Flynn heading a Government panel discusses a serious federal problem of today. Government classes aim at preparing seniors to become the citizens of tomorrow.

Compromises of all sorts are studied in earnest detail by our two American History students, Teresa Carreira and Margaret Vetovich. A visible pointer is helpful!

When it comes to history, maps can prove to be priceless assistance. Sandra Thiboutot explains state boundaries to Julia Morgan and Joyce Moniz.

ART AND MUSIC

Here are the smiling faces of some of our seniors who avidly listen to various pieces from Beethoven and Tchaikovsky, in Sister Marie Lorraine's music class. I wonder whom the girls prefer? Perhaps the Beatles!

Art and Music, two of the fine arts, are offered to the students at Mount. Each girl is thus given the opportunity to supplement her required courses while also broadening her cultural background. Sister Marie Lorraine and Mr. Thomas Tavares extend to us these advancements,

Our aspiring artist, Suzanne St. Pierre, offers her criticism on a painting done by Toulouse Latrec and pencil drawings etched by a classmate.

Karen Aguiar explains the various shades of color and the technique which she and her fellow classmate, Betty Ann Picard, used to paint this lovely autumn scene displayed in Room 9A.

The Senior music class listens to Joanne Greene and Helene Auger explain the various wind instruments to them. Have you all mastered the flute, girls?

Virginia Lawlor and Mary Beth Braz browse through the fiction section of the library. Which books did you finally choose, girls? Romance stories or adventure tales?

LIBRARY

The library at the Mount is a storehouse of knowledge, a center of learning, and a place for probings which yields discoveries. Through the assistance of Sister Mary Mercy, Miss Sullivan, and numerous library aides, every student is given friendly service. Every individual can be proud of our library which is so extensive.

Three of our Freshmen gain a few bits of advice from our famous friend, Peanuts, after reading his latest words of wisdom. Girls, do you think, by any chance, that Sister Mary Mercy has a favorite?

From the wise seniors to the inexperienced freshmen, we all realize the importance of knowing where and how to use reference books in a library.

ENRICHMENT

RING CEREMONY

The red stone, signifying courage, is encircled by the academy name. On one side is a Mercy shield, and on the other the school shield.

The class of 1966 had a very memorable ring ceremony. They were first to have the ring dance and the entire student body ceremony participation.

The class rings are blessed by the school chaplain, Father McCarrick, and presented to the girls by Sister Mary Consilii. Here Kathy Powszak receives her ring in the first ceremony attended by the entire student body.

The Senior Sodality prepares Christmas gifts to be distributed at General Hospital. Many Sodalists do volunteer work at this hospital.

The Junior Sodality is conducting a vigorous campaign against smutty literature. This is but one of their many apostolic projects.

The Probationers study diligently for a year before they are received into the Sodality. Sodalist seek to know Christ through devotion to His Mother, Mary.

Commitment . . . Service . . . Consecration! These are the ideals of every sodalist, dedicated to her apostolate of the present moment in order to reach Jesus through Mary.

SODALITY

JUNIOR PROM

Even yearbook editors get to pose for pictures now and then. Theresa Miranda proves this with her escort, Jay Hoyle.

Janis Biszko and her escort, Michael Crane, enjoy a slow set under the atmosphere of My Fair Lady.

Our gym took on a majestic atmosphere the night of our prom. Captured by a sorrowful farewell to a beautiful evening we find Jean Martineau and her escort quietly gazing.

We caught a glance of the merry group and their escorts. Seated we find Gilda Monge and Joseph Biszko, Norma Heywood and Alan Deston while Mary Ann Souza and Thomas De Mello stand.

Prom smiles are flashed by a dashing couple in the middle of a mysterious two step by Elaine Moura and her escort Stephen Camara.

Proms may come and go but treasured in the heart of every Senior is our Junior Prom, We matched our theme MY FAIR LADY in every way.

Courageous leaders of the grand march, the highlight of the evening, were Anne Daigle and Elsie Pelton escorted by Richard St. Pierre and Paul Proulx.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Just what are Janice Dufresne and Diane Arruda trying to sell? Nothing really . . . the posters are a remembrance of last year's Student Council elections held in May when each candidate worked diligently in long preparation.

Looking over the meeting's program for the Student Council are Sister Mary Phyllis, moderator, and Monica Polak and Geraldine Arruda, president and vice president respectively. The Student Council consists of two representatives from each homeroom.

The Mount Student Council acts as a voice between our faculty and student body. This group forms the judicial backbone of our rules system.

Mass confusion? No, of course not. Here we find Elsie Pelton and Carole Laroche, Student Council Treasurer and Secretary, respectively, supervising sophomores at class changings.

A senior, Cornelia Correia, explores the opportunities of Peter Bent Brigham Hospital which were displayed in the Honor Society College Corner. Every two weeks different colleges, universities, business schools, or nursing schools are posted with a description of their courses and requirements.

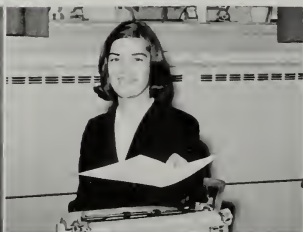

Newly inducted senior members of the Mother McAuley Chapter of the National Honor Society are: Theresa Miranda, Sonia Uchman, Janice Brady, Sheila Silvia, Margaret Ruggiero.

Jane Chicca and Helene Auger, members of the Honor Society, and Sister Mary Phyllis, their moderator, are preparing the stage for the induction of new members.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Our senior Mercian reporters all get together and admire their very first edition. These are the hard working energetic seniors behind the head lines.

Who's who and what's what? Under the careful supervision of Sister Mary Austina these questions are fully answered in every page of our Mercian.

The debate society trains its members to think logically and to substantiate their opinions with facts. Although hard work is required, great rewards are reaped.

Research is an important aspect of debating. The members of the society spend hours in the library attempting to obtain the most current evidence in order to win their debates.

DEBATE CLUB

LANGUAGE CLUBS

The senior French Club group is quite a number for one sitting, but Sister Mary Adele, moderator, handles all cheerfully.

Dual French Club officers: Elizabeth Misk, Mary Ann Souza, Muriel Paquette, Nancy Medeiros, Sheila Silvia, and Charlotte Cabral trim their tree.

Sherry Vincent, Judith Riley, Madeline Fernandes, Nancy Lord and Jacqueline McGough aren't playing, but helping in a Spanish Club activity.

Christmas time was a busy season for the Spanish Club this year. We snapped a quick shot of members Janet Jean, Jean Mehlman, and Linda Rezendes doing their part.

Famous on our enrichment curriculum are language clubs. Sister Mary Adele's double sessioned French Club and Sister Mary Ludvine's Spanish Club are popular with all.

Mr. Smith, a friend to all of us, advises one of our hostesses, Alberta Costa, on proper welcoming techniques.

A slow set comes as a welcome relief to most couples; Beverly Camara and George Croak are no exceptions.

The spirit running through all our Mount dances is fun and the scenery is beautiful. We see Monica Polak and Vivianne Prevost, with their escorts caught up in the spirit.

Ankle deep in hay, Marjorie Lowney, Lennard Thomson, Christine Sweeney, and James Charrette group around "Tom" our Harvest Hop Turkey. By the way, Margie and Lennie won the Harvest Surprise.

HARVEST DANCE

SCIENCE CLUB

Here Mary Beth Soares, Science Club treasurer, discusses the method of caring for guppies to Freshman and Sophomore members of the Science Club. Would anyone else be as interested?

The officers of the Science Club, Nancy Picard, Lynne Chrupcala, Diane Vieira, Mary Beth Soares, admire a plaque which accredits Mount as a chapter of the Future Scientists of America.

Junior members of the Science Club discuss projects, as senior officers Lynne Chrupcala and Nancy Picard, look on approvingly and Junior Vice President Diane Vieira listens.

Here at the Mount we have a very active Vanguard Science Club. Each member participates in our annual science fair with enthusiasm and zeal.

For an all-girls school we do very well in our sports department. Our basketball team is excellent and we all match it in spirit.

Get it in, Donna! Here we find Donna Boutin, a forward on the Junior Varsity as she pushes Mount's score up, up, up!

Basketball Team: Jacqueline Cummings, Donna McDermott, Nancy Lord, and Anne Sullivan, co-captains and Carol Morton. Back row: Patricia Smith, Dorothy Morton, Marilyn Strojny, Donna Ferreira, Elizabeth Misk, Mary Ann Souza and Margaret Galford.

Shoot it up! Get it in! Let's win! Such is the cry of our cheerleaders and pep squad. The pep squad consists of about 150 girls from various classes.

SPORTS

ORCHESTRA

Violins, violas, cellos and one big bass all make up our string section — that section which makes up an important part of the melody.

The Mount orchestra provides excellent entertainment at all school functions. Their spring concert was truly lovely. It was a fruit of their hard and faithful practice.

Blending with our soft strings is the harmonious backbone of our orchestra consisting of: Kathy Langefield, Jean Benoit and Nancy Martel; Gerry Bliss, Mary Hoss, Veronica Plaziak and Loretta Michaud; Mary Crossan, Gail Silvia, Diane Vieira and Rosemary Francouer.

The Mount orchestra provides an excellent opportunity for students to express their fine musical talent. The girls led by Sister Marie Lorraine provide cultural entertainment.

Carolyn Robillard, Marjorie Gazzero and Veronica Plaziak are Mount's three faithful pianists. These girls play the accompaniment at Glee Club practices, performances, Mount's annual operetta, First Friday Mass and numerous other occasions. We are greatly indebted to them.

Only a few members of our orchestra find fun in playing the flute and clarinet. These are the chosen few.

GLEE CLUB

Our Senior glee club in its entirety is composed of seniors, juniors and sophomores while the freshmen have their own choral group. These girls devote much of their time and energy to their glee club under Sister Marie Lorraine's instruction.

These members are the leaders of our two music clubs, glee club and orchestra. Their cooperation and sacrifices have resulted in success.

What is more pleasing than the sweet sounds of the beauty and harmony of singing? The Glee Club provides this delight throughout the school year.

Seniors Teresa Quinn, Stefi Cummings, Claudette Demers, soloist, Eileen Danis, Cynthia Bishop and Jane Taylor sing a beautiful practice of "God is Love." They are accompanied by faithful Veronica Plaziak at the piano.

Our two altos, Anne Sullivan and Dorothy Morton, chant a little hymn with a few strong dedicated leading sopranos.

This is but a mere portion of the grand group. They have their special section in our auditorium during Mass when all unite to sing God's praises.

The largest group in Mount history is the present liturgical choir. Under Sister Marie Lorraine's guidance, they lead the school in liturgical music.

LITURGICAL CHOIR

The Toymaker from Prevost tells his audience all about the land of make-believe. Freshmen students form the pixie row in the background.

With a cast of over 150 students from the Mount, all area high schools, and three neighboring elementary schools, all sang and danced their way through Victor Herbert's all-time favorite. Here the French Dolls suddenly come to life in Act II.

Timothy Perry played Uncle Barnaby, the villain. This was Tim's second Mount appearance for he played Rolf, the messenger boy, in The Sound of Music.

Toy soldiers led by Patricia Bond and Carol Machado '65, were one of the highlights in Act II. The Freshmen Glee Club were the Toymaker's helpers. Babes in Toyland was the biggest musical production of the Mount since it began.

Frederick Campos, a Coyle senior and Cheryl Roderiques '65 sing the duet, "Just a Whisper Away." The Glee Club members had all the roles in the production.

Joyce Forneiro is the first Mount student to master the light panel. She has been in charge of staging and lighting for three of her four years. She is shown "breaking in" two freshmen who will attempt to replace her valuable service.

Claudette Demers and Walter Mulyk, one of the dandies, join in "I'm in a Hurry," a choral number in Act I.

MERCYCREST

Sister Mary Benita, our adviser, meets with Mr. Ursprung, our helpful year-book instructor. The meeting was open to literary and photography staff members: Beverly Furtado, Kathy Hamett, Janice Brady, Charlotte Cabral, Suzanne St. Pierre, Jane Chicca, Helene Auger, Carole Laroche, and Marlene Shea.

Our star "picture cropper," Claire Delisle, ad page editor Joanne Greene, and cake sale chairman Norma Heywood discuss the plans for the Mercyrest cake sale.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF: Theresa Miranda

BUSINESS MANAGER: Janis Biszko

ARTISTS: Dorothy Morton, Martha Wheatley.
